

Kathy Cano-Murillo

I'm digging all the holographic action going on these days. And with so many cool crafty products out there, it's easy to whip up your own creation!

MATERIALS:

Brother™ ScanNCut machine, holographic iron-on transfer sheet, cotton T-shirt, iron, blue painter's tape

step 1. Remove the sheet from the plastic and set on the standard mat.

step 2.

Turn your blade to "5".

Tip: Always perform a test cut.

step 3.

Use a gift card to squeeze out any bubbles.

step 4.

Create your design on the screen and arrange it the way you want. Press the button to load the mat, and press the “Cut” button. It’ll look like this when it comes out! You can also use glittered iron-on sheets, velvet, and different fabrics as well!

step 5.

Remove from the mat. Fire up the iron, and set the shirt on an ironing board.

step 6.

Use the blue painter’s tape to press your letters evenly on the shirt. Apply a pressing cloth and set the iron on top, and then hold for about five seconds. Don’t drag the iron or the letters will rip. Continue to add the other words or phrases!

step 7. You're all done! Now you have a fun holographic t-shirt.

