- Cut (2) 10"x10" squares of cotton fabric

- Cut (2) 10" x 10" squares of cotton batting

- Embroider a message of love similar to the conversation candy hearts (this step is optional)

- Lay the cotton square of batting on the wrong side of one 10" x 10" layer of cotton fabric
- Sew from one corner to another, making an x across the square

- Repeat this step with the second piece of batting to the second piece of fabric

- Fold one of the batting/cotton squares in half and on the folded edge

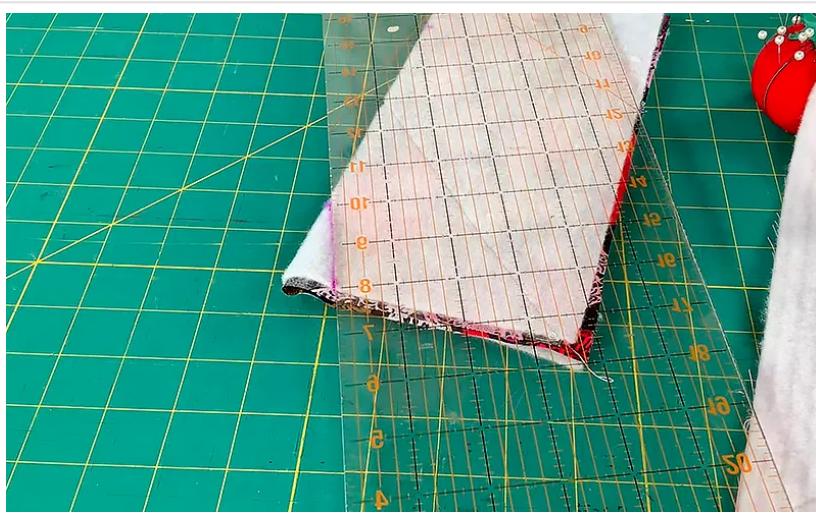

- Measure 2 inches in from the raw edge and mark

- Along the raw edge, measure 1" from the fold – and mark

- Using a straight edge, draw a line from one mark to the other

- Do this to both ends of the folded edge

- Sew between the two marks

- Clip the corner

- Unfold the fabric and refold the same 10 x 10 piece in half again to create a new fold on the opposite side

- Repeat the steps to make the darts; there should be four darts on each square
- Make darts on both of the 10 x 10 batting/cotton pieces
- Laying the pieces right sides together

- Sew around the edge leaving a 3" opening

- Turn it right side out
- Press and top stitch all the way around

And there you have it: homemade bowl koozies sealed with a kiss! They're so cute and easy to make, they can practically speak for themselves. This koozie is intended to be used with a bowl that is too hot or too cold to handle. These DIY bowl koozies also make cute catch-alls for dry items like jewelry or coins.
